Prairie Band Casino & Resort to expand

Expansion of the casino is in the works that will include a bingo hall and more gaming floor space for slot machines. Outside improvements will include repaving the parking lots located on the west side in front of the casino.

The General Council voted to approve the expansion on April 18 at their last quarterly meeting.

The bingo hall will be state-of-the-art and constructed as an attachment to the casino's front side that faces north. It will seat 367 players and have electronic handheld games and pull tabs. Food and beverages will also be available and there will be merchandise for sale.

An extension of the existing gaming floor is also proposed. The gaming floor will be extended to include 200 additional slot machines.

In addition, a large section of the casino's existing customer parking area will be repaved.

Projected costs for the expansion are $9.47 million.

Message to the Nation from Liana Onnen, Tribal Council Chairperson

Bosho, nishnabek. As I write this during the first week in June, the reservation in Kansas has received about four to five inches of rain in the past 24 hours, depending on your location. Not to mention the rain that fell before all week long. And that is on top of another 10 to 12 inches of rain that are estimated to have fallen during May. It is pow wow weekend and there is potentially more rain in the forecast. Many creeks and streams have spilled over their banks and roads across the reservation are flooded or washed out and are partially or totally closed. Did I mention it is pow wow weekend?

With the pow wow on the horizon, it might seem like a good time to get mired down in worry or blame. What will we do? Why didn't they do something different? Who should have done this? Who should have done that? Will we be able to have the pow wow? Will people be able to get around? With those questions in mind, I know that we are lucky because the Prairie Band Potawatomi Nation community is resilient and resourceful. We have some of the best employees taking care of the situation, and have an understanding community composed of people who are a part of the solution and not part of the problem. The Prairie Band Potawatomi have always found a way. We survive and we rise every time. We survive not just because of the people on our home reservation, but also all the Potawatomi across the country that work at the federal government and in successful, prominent business positions. We are a people together, united in many more ways than we realize, despite the distances that may separate us, because our culture and the lessons of our culture are deeply ingrained in each of us, whether we see that or not.

It is these traits found in the Potawatomi people that make my job great. Every day I get to interact with tribal members and work for the progress of our tribe and our people. Your Tribal Council is continuing to tackle the issues that face us as a Nation, representing the people, and moving us forward in a positive way. In May, Tribal Council met off-site to identify priorities for the Nation and to determine the projects that we, as a Council, would like to accomplish in the next three to five years. We will be finalizing and implementing that plan in the coming weeks. It was a good session and I think we learned that we share many of the same priorities and understand their importance as it pertains to the Nation.

We are moving forward with offers in the Land-Buy-Back Program and the Enrollment Town Hall Meetings remain a priority. Please remember, the Enrollment Town Hall Meetings are being held to get YOUR input on how we will shape our future as a people. If you are able to attend these meetings please be sure to come. There is one on June 27 and there will be another one planned for the fall. These meetings will determine the enrollment criteria change options which could be placed on a constitutional amendment referendum ballot next year.

Some of the other working meetings that I attended with other Council members included: Enrollment Town Hall preparation; Social Services Advisory Board; Quarterly All-Employee Meeting; Indian Health Services-Office of Environmental Health (IHS-OEH); Jackson County Commissioners; U.S. Attorney Barry Grissom and Assistant U.S. Attorney Alan Metzger and Kickapoo Nation Tribal Council; Local U.S.D.A. regarding Conservation Reserve Program; meeting with officials regarding the Shabehnay Reservation in Illinois; Prairie Band, LLC Board and staff; Prairie Band Casino & Resort Entertainment Corporation and staff regarding the casino expansion project.

Other meetings and events attended by Tribal Council members and me included:

Take Back the Night sponsored by the Tribal Victim Services Department; Charitable Contributions Committee awards presentation; Signing ceremony for Memorandum of Understanding with the Department of Veterans Affairs to provide homeownership opportunities to our Native Veterans, and the 2015 Haskell Commencement ceremony which had one of its largest graduating classes in history. As your chairperson, I was also pleased to provide opening remarks at several events including conventions at our Casino, charitable events like the Native American Mental Health Alliance Walk, and other ceremonies and openings where I highlighted the PBPN's contributions to the community that are hopefully making a difference in the lives of everyday people.

In addition, it was an honor to represent the Nation by providing testimony to the House Appropriations Subcommittee in Washington, D.C. to request increasing funding amounts to address our tribal needs and that of all federally recognized tribes. We must consistently remind the federal government of its trust obligations and do all that we can to ensure they meet those obligations. I also attended my first National Indian Gaming Association Convention and Trade Show in San Diego. It was a particular honor to attend a luncheon to witness my predecessor, Chairman Steve Ortiz, receiving the Chairman's Leadership Award for his service and achievements during his tenure. Additionally, I also attended a luncheon with Kansas Senator Jerry Moran who was recently seated on the Senate Indian Affairs Committee and seems to be communicating with the PBPN regularly on issues he feels are important to us and Indian Country. Later in the month, I was able to travel back to D.C. along with Vice-Chairperson, Joyce Guerrero and Council Member, Thomas Wabnum to meet with officials at the Department of the Interior for a discussion about the land-into-trust process and our Shabehnay Reservation. On a related note, tribal members and all Native Americans should keep track of their representatives in Washington, D.C. as there have recently been heated hearings that question the authority of the Assistant Secretary of the Interior to take land into trust for tribes. This is an alarming discussion which could impact all of Indian Country negatively if tribes do not voice their opinions and concerns. We will be watching these developments closely and hope you will too.

I look forward to the next three months and the positive changes that are coming our way. When the storms come, when the challenges come, they bring with them blessings and strengths that we may not always recognize when they are in our midst. But when the storms pass, when the challenge has been met, we will find ourselves stronger and wiser than we were before. So we must never let the challenge of the hour, the day, the week or even the challenge of our lives set us on a course of dissension and discord. We must rise to those challenges and listen to one another to find the solutions to those problems together. I have learned from my mother, from my Potawatomi family, that when times are the worst, when we are at our lowest, we will stick together, we will support one another and all the petty differences that may have divided us must be set aside to get through the tough times. I was taught that when one of us fails, we all fail and when one of us succeeds, we all succeed. We cannot be like the crabs in a bucket, crawling over one another in a selfish quest to be on top. We must raise one another up.

Before I close, I must recognize the efforts of Peggy Houston, General Manager of Tribal Operations. For the past two years, Peggy has worked for the Nation and has met many challenges in that position. She will soon be taking another journey and we all wish her well, wherever she may go next. Best wishes, Peggy and thank you for your service to the Nation!

Former Chairperson Steve Ortiz receives Chairman’s Leadership Award at National Indian Gaming Association Convention

Steve Ortiz, former PBPB chairperson, was honored with the National Indian Gaming Association (NIGA) Chairman’s Leadership Award on March 31 in San Diego.

Ortiz was given his award and a blanket from NIGA Chairman Ernie Stevens Jr. who highlighted his achievements as the former chairman of the PBPB and influence in the National Indian Gaming industry.

Ortiz was an elected official in the PBPB for approximately 15 years and served his last seven years as chairperson until 2014.

Others at the NIGA awards luncheon included Carrie O’Toole and Liana Onnen from the PBPB Tribal Council and members of Ortiz’s family. Several other northeast Kansas tribal leaders and staff from the Prairie Band Casino & Resort also attended the week long convention that included informational sessions and exhibits.

Prairie Band Potawatomi and Department of Veterans Affairs hold signing ceremony for Native American Direct Home Loan Program

Prairie Band tribal leaders and Veterans Administration (VA) dignitaries signed a memorandum of understanding (MOU) that will allow Native American veterans and their spouses to apply for a Native American Direct Loan on trust land. Signing the MOU and sitting are Mike Frueh, director of the Veterans Affairs Home Loan Program, and Liana Onnen, PBP chairperson. Potawatomi veterans also witnessed the signing.

On May 5 leaders of the Prairie Band of Potawatomi Nation (PBP) signed a Memorandum of Understanding (MOU) with the Department of Veterans Affairs (VA) so eligible Native American veterans and their spouses will have the opportunity to use their Department of Veterans Affairs (VA) home loan benefit on federal trust land.

The signing ceremony began at 10 a.m. with a Veterans Benefits Fair that followed at the Bingo Hall.

Liana Onnen, PBP chairperson, said, "The Prairie Band of Potawatomi Nation looks forward to our partnership with Veterans Affairs to provide direct loans to our eligible Native American veterans through the Native American Direct Loan (NADL) Program. The signing of this intergovernmental document exemplifies the commitment of both organizations to provide adequate housing opportunities for our Native Veterans."

By statute, before the VA may make a loan to a Native American veteran desiring to build or renovate a home on tribal land, the veteran's tribal sovereign governing body must enter into a MOU with VA. Native American veterans eligible for VA home loan benefits and whose sovereign governments have signed a MOU may then apply directly to the VA for a 30-year fixed rate to purchase, build, or improve a home located on federal trust land. They may also refinance a direct loan already made under this program to lower their interest rate.

Native Americans traditionally have had the highest rate of enlistment in the armed forces. This agreement opens the door for Prairie Band of Potawatomi veterans to use their richly deserved benefit of home ownership on Indian Country. The Native American Direct Loan (NADL) is a low cost, low fixed interest rate home loan. The lender is the VA.

VA regional office representatives who work on the Native American Direct Loan Program were present to answer questions. Future questions can be made by calling 800.827.0611 ext: 3716 or by visiting www.benefits.va.gov/stpaul/regional_loan_center.asp for more information about the NADL.

Other information about health and other VA benefits were available at the fair from staff with the Kansas VA Health Care System, Topeka Regional Office, Department of Veterans Affairs, St. Paul Regional Loan Center, VA Central Office, Washington, D.C. and the PBP.

Land Buy-Back Program news

Staff who are working on the Land Buy-Back program for the PBP have been busy the last two months implementing and processing the paperwork on behalf of the Bureau of Indian Affairs to tribal members who have been made offers to sell their fractionated portions of land on the PBP reservation that will be placed into trust.

Marzha Fritzler, Steve Duryea and Kim Walker, who are on the staff for the PBP, along with Tribal Council Member Tom Wabnum, have been holding informational sessions and meetings at the Elders Center, Bingo Hall, and at Prairie Band Casino & Resort to inform members about the process. Meetings have also been held in Wisconsin where the second largest concentration of PBP members reside. Offers closed on June 8.

The Land Buy-Back Program was created to implement the land consolidation component of the Cobell Settlement, which provided $1.9 billion to consolidate fractional land interests across Indian Country.

The PBP were one of the first tribes selected by the BIA to implement the program.

Wade Pahmahmie named Director of Finance

The Finance Department operates under the direction of the Tribal Council Treasurer's office.

Wade Pahmahmie has been named Director of Finance for the Prairie Band Potawatomi Nation (PBP). Before taking the position, he was acting interim director and was also the assistant controller in the department.

Prior to that, Pahmahmie worked in Finance serving as a contract specialist from 2000 until 2006 and then as an accountant II for six years. He has also been recognized by his peers as Employee of the Month in 2001 and Employee of the Quarter in 2009.

Pahmahmie holds a double major in business finance and business management from Washburn University. He is a tribal member and resides on the PBP reservation.

The Finance Department is supervised by the Office of the Tribal Council Treasurer and is staffed by fifteen employees who work in various areas including accounting, grants, procurement/purchasing, and per capita. The department is located on the upper level of the Government Center.

Flying the flag for the PBPN

Tribal Council members Tom Wabnum, Joyce Guerrero, and Liana Onnen were in Washington, D.C. on business on May 14 and had this photo taken in the Bureau of Indian Affairs corridor of tribal flags. The photo, right, shows Councilperson Wabnum displaying the PBPN flag.

Lakers, Carrie O'Toole, PBPN Tribal Council member and Haskell Board of Regents member, and Mark Dodd, Tribal Liaison for the State of Kansas.

Several members of the Prairie Band Potawatomi Nation participated in commencement ceremonies on May 8 at Haskell Indian Nations University's (HINU) Coffin Sports Complex in Lawrence, Kansas. Sally Jewell, Secretary of the Department of Interior, gave the keynote address and Dr. Venida Chenault, president of HINU and a PBPN member, presented diplomas to over 200 graduates. In addition, PBPN's Arlene Wahwasuck was also honored as Outstanding Alumni of the Year.

Wahwasuck was honored during a reception on Thursday, May 7 at Haskell which was a part of Haskell's

Commencement weekend.

After graduating from Haskell in 1951, Wahwasuck completed an undergraduate degree in nursing at Washburn and a master's degree in community health at the University of Kansas.

Professionally she remained in nursing and retired as a Captain in the U.S. Public Health Services Nurse officer program in 1999. Since that time, she has remained active in Indian health issues and concerns and was an active committee member in the development of the Potawatomi Health Center that is located on the PBPN reservation.

Guidance tips for “Best if Used By” for U.S.D.A. commodity food

Submitted by Tracy Potts

Many USDA commodity foods display a 'Best If Used By' date. This is not a food safety date. It means that the manufacturer recommends using the product by this date for the best flavor or quality. At some point after the 'Best If Used By' date, the product may change very gradually in taste, color, texture, or nutrient content, but the product may be wholesome and safe long after that date.

If you have reason to question the quality or safety of your food, examine the can or package for any signs of spoilage, such as, bulging cans or cans that spurt liquid when opened, rust, leakage from the package, broken seals or torn packages, insect infestation, and/or foul odor. If any of these conditions are present, do not eat the food. When in doubt, throw it out. Destroy the food so it will not accidentally be eaten. If there are no visible signs of spoilage, open the can or package and smell the product. If you do not see or smell any signs of spoilage and the can or package is not damaged (dented, torn, or leaking), you must use your best judgment regarding the quality of the food and whether or not to eat it.

A number of factors can shorten the useful life of a food product such as improper handling and inappropriate storage conditions. The overall quality and nutritional value of the product may begin to decline over a period of time, but this does not mean the food is not safe to eat. The decision to eat the food must be made after carefully considering how the product was stored and handled and the condition of the package. With the exception of infant formula, there is no single date that indicates when a product must be used, and after which it cannot be used.

There are several things you can do to make sure your foods are at their peak quality:

- Store dry foods in a cool (preferable less than 70 degrees) dry place. Store food off the floor.
- Store opened flour, pasta, and dry cereal products in air tight containers or resealable plastic bags.
- Although you can store flour and cornmeal at room temperature in an air tight container for up to six months, you can extend its life even further by storing it in the refrigerator or freezer. Warning: Stockpiling these products in your pantry will attract unwanted pests!
- Store chilled foods in the refrigerator. Set your refrigerator temperature at 39 degrees to help keep food safe. Always wrap food tightly.

- Keep frozen foods frozen until ready to use. Always wrap food tightly to avoid freezer burn. Do not pack your freezer too tightly - leave room for air to circulate.
- Date the food package when you receive it. Always use oldest commodities first. Organize your pantry and cupboards so that the oldest commodities are near the front.

There are several food safety applications available for Apple and Android devices. Check out the new USDA 'Foodkeeper' app. With this application, you can find specific storage timelines for the refrigerator, freezer, and pantry, depending on the nature of the product. 'Ask Karen' is another free app that provides information about preventing food borne illness, safe food handling and storage, and safe preparation of meat, poultry and egg products.

The Potawatomi Nation has been operating a food distribution program since the early 1980s. There is a monthly commodity program calendar that can be accessed on the tribal website at www.pbpindiantribe.com/community-services.aspx under the food distribution program. The food distribution building is located at 15189 K Road, Mayetta, KS and is staffed by two individuals. For hours call 785.966.2178.

Thinking of buying your own home?
The Housing Department is sponsoring Homebuyer Workshops in conjunction with its National Housing Program on Thursday, Aug. 20 Thursday, Nov. 19 Bingo Hall, 6-8 p.m.

A reminder to Potawatomi Food Distribution Program participants: You may refuse any commodities you do not want or cannot use. Help reduce food waste! Before ordering your commodities, first go through your pantry and take stock of what you have. Then order only what your household can use within a month or two.

Take Back the Night event calls attention to stopping sexual assault

April was National Sexual Assault Awareness Month, and in honor of it the Tribal Victim Services Department hosted the 4th annual Take Back the Night Awareness event April 7 at Prairie Peoples Park.

The evening kicked off with a presentation about the problem of sexual assault in Native American communities. Statistics show that one in three native women are victims of sexual assault and the purpose of Take Back the Night was to highlight programs available to the Prairie Band Potawatomi community like the Tribal Victim Services Department and SAFESTAR volunteer community assistance program.

In addition, Liana Onnen, PBPN chairperson, read a Tribal Council Resolution that declared tribal support and she also spoke about the importance of using Tribal Victim Services and other support groups. The evening concluded with a community round dance.

Holding the microphone is Liana Onnen, PBPN chairperson, who gave remarks about the importance of stopping sexual assaults and recognizing the good work that the Tribal Victim Services (TVS) Department is doing. To her left, is Shirley Rice and Daniel Goombi from TVS, and to her right, is Keirsten Hale and Iva Rank who are volunteers with the SAFESTAR program, that also assists sexual assault victims in the community.

Early Childhood Education Center sponsors Health Fair

A face painting booth was part of the fun at the Early Childhood Education Center's Health Fair that was held April 10. The fair was intended to provide health assessments and information for children who are planning to enroll in Headstart or kindergarten next year.

Gardening Workshop

Approximately 50 future gardeners attended a presentation by Eddie Joe Mitchell about how to grow a garden on April 27 at the Bingo Hall. Topics on composting, using rain barrels, container growing and building raised beds were discussed at the workshop. Mitchell, who is on the staff of the Diabetes Prevention Program, is a lifelong reservation resident and provided good tips on growing produce and plants. In addition, he had raspberry plants and heirloom seeds to give away.

Sports physicals for youth to be offered at the Potawatomi Health Center

Sports physicals for the 2015-16 school year will be offered at the Potawatomi Health Center on the morning of July 14 (8:00 a.m. to 11:00 a.m.) or the afternoon of July 15 (12:30 p.m. to 3:00 p.m.).

Youth (under the age of 16 must be accompanied by a parent or guardian) who are already patients at the Health Center may schedule an appointment by calling 785.966.8201 or 8211.

Youth who qualify for service but are not current patients will have to schedule a visit on another day.

A form must be filled out in advance of the appointment that can be accessed through the Kansas State High School Activities Association (KSHSAA) at www.kshsaa.org/public/pdf/form-ppe.pdf.

Ammi Ramirez-Williams sees weight loss success

By Melinda Williamson

Ammi Ramirez-Williams joined the Diabetes Prevention Program in August of 2014 with the hopes of losing weight and getting her lifestyle on track. She went through the 16-week Lifestyle Balance classes designed to teach about nutrition, physical activity and how to successfully change your lifestyle.

In the first class session, Kathy Sterbenz, the Diabetes Nurse Educator, calculated Ammi's daily calorie and fat gram goals and gave her a goal to lose 7% of her body weight. She was provided with a calorie counting book that showed her how many calories, fat, sugar, protein was in the foods that she was eating and she was asked to write down everything she was eating on a daily basis.

"I started following this task religiously!" Ammi said. "I was shocked by how many fat, calories, and sugar were in the foods that I was eating every day!"

She began cutting back on fast food and now only goes out occasionally for a special treat.

Additionally, Ammi said, "Cereal was a huge problem for me, I loved sugary cereals like Fruit Loops and Fruity Pebbles but they contained so much sugar I completely cut them out and started eating Kellogg's Special K cereal which had more fiber and less sugar. Now I eat Bran Flakes with cinnamon and a little sugar. I also love to drink whole milk but now I only drink 1%."

Soda was a big problem for Ammi but she also cut that out and now just drinks the water in the Nalgene bottle that she got for attending classes. After she got her nutrition under control, she began increasing her physical activity by adding exercise into her daily schedule. She tries to walk her dogs every day and has also begun going to the gym with her husband where they do cardio and weight lifting exercises together.

"The incentives that I got from the Diabetes Prevention Program really helped me a lot," Ammi said, "and the meals that they prepared for us helped me get out of my comfort zone and into trying new foods that I had never eaten before. In the beginning I remember Kathy encouraging me to make small changes and that they would add up. And I started doing just that, and they do! I originally weighed 245.4 pounds and am now down to 221.6. I have made it past my goal to lose 7% and I am not done!"

Next fall, a new round of Diabetes Prevention Program classes will begin and as Ammi's testimony suggests, the program does work. Let the Diabetes Program help you start making the changes that you need to your lifestyle! For more information call Melinda Williamson at 785-966-8271.

Ammi Ramirez-Williams has lost 25 pounds so far in the Diabetes Prevention Program.

Yoga for Every Body classes offered by Diabetes Prevention Program

Yoga was offered for the first time as an organized class last spring through the Diabetes program at the Rock Building. Instructor for the course was Cat McMahon who has been teaching yoga for over 20 years. The class taught Iyengar yoga techniques designed to teach proper body alignment to aid proper posture as a preventive measure to avoiding injury and pain. Yoga mats and other props were also provided for each session and were taught on Tuesdays after the work day.

Join the next 16-week session of the Diabetes Prevention Program (topics vary and individuals don't have to attend each class)

Peacemakers Circle logo contest

Attention all artistic and creative minds! The Prairie Band Potawatomi Nation Peacemakers Circle is looking for a new logo design to represent the face of the Peacemakers!

What is the Peacemakers Circle? As stated in the Constitution of the Prairie Band Potawatomi Nation, our Judicial Council is required to include a separate mediating branch that is utilized to resolve and mediate disputes in a non-adversarial way through healing and harmonious ways, by applying traditional, cultural and restorative methods.

Keeping these elements in mind, the Peacemakers are searching for a contemporary logo that incorporates these indigenous philosophies and principles.

Prizes will be awarded! Please call 785-966-2242 for any questions about submitting a logo.

Jobs! Jobs! Jobs!

As a Prairie Band Potawatomi tribal member you are eligible to apply to In House Job postings? All you need to do is submit your application, a copy of your tribal enrollment identification, and any other requirements requested for the position you are applying for.

The drive was held at the Potawatomi Health Center and co-sponsored by the Community Blood Center.

It's a GREAT day to be a Panther

There were 44 fourth grade students from Royal Valley Middle School that received a certificate of appreciation for completing a program called the Gang Resistance Education and Training (G.R.E.A.T.) curricula on May 5. Representatives from the PBPB Tribal Police Department, the Jackson County Sheriff's Department, Royal Valley School District and the PBPB Tribal Council were on hand to offer congratulations during the ceremony. Special guest was WIBW-TV news reporter and anchor Sarah Plake.

Tribal Police Officer John Calvert, who also serves as Royal Valley's Student Resource Officer, teaches the program at the elementary and middle schools that is dedicated to teaching students and their family members to learn life skills that will help them to avoid delinquent and violent behavior problems in the future. The course is taught in the classroom and involves using a work book and interactive sessions. Teachers within the school system are also involved in the program.

G.R.E.A.T. is a nationwide teaching program that was introduced three years ago at Royal Valley. The elementary school is located in Hoyt, Kan.

Storm Spotters presentation offers informative tips on keeping safe in bad weather

Chad Omitt with the U.S. National Weather Service in Topeka, gave an informative presentation on how to spot storms at the Bingo Hall on April 28.

The presentation was sponsored by the Potawatomi Tribal Fire Department and approximately 40 people attended from various departments and programs including Road & Bridge and Construction Maintenance.

Omott discussed the nature of clouds and what to look for when spotting hazardous weather conditions. He said that the months of May and June are when most tornadoes occur and that tracking stormy weather patterns from the West coast in California to the east are good indicators of when storms will be likely in the Midwest.

Omott further stated that the greatest danger in a tornado is not the tornado itself but the debris that is carried within it that causes the most damage. He suggested that structures made out of concrete are the safest, like basements and safe rooms and warned that wood structures or trailers are the easiest to destroy.

Omott also gave a lot of tips on how to report severe weather situations and that there are advance storm spotting presentations available through the national weather service where he works.

Here's what information is needed when reporting severe weather

- your name and if you have had storm-spotter training
- where you are located-city, county and what direction you are looking (north, south, east, west)
- when or what time it was that you observed the event and how long it persisted
- what are conditions like- (tornado, downburst (wind),hail, etc.)

Secretary

Kassie James

Greetings! I'm Kassie James; the daughter of Robin Shuckahosee and Lydia Goslin. My maternal grandparents are Mace Goslin and Anita Wabaunsee. My paternal grandparents are Isaac Shuckahosee Jr. and Jane Pelkey.

I will begin by providing some basic information about myself. I've spent a majority of the 26 years of my life close to Mayetta. In 2008, I met my husband, Jaken at Haskell. We were married two days after I graduated from Haskell with a bachelor's degree in Business Administration on May 13, 2012. We have three children: Joseph, 5; Ruby, 3; and Lily, 1. Although my husband has strong ties to the Dine Nation, the PBP reservation is our home! The rez is where my kids will spend their childhood, and where my husband and I plan to grow old. Next to my family, the land, community, and our culture mean the utmost to me. Together these three components define us as Prairie Bands' from Mayetta, Kansas. The perpetuation of our tribe through the rebuilding of our land, people, and traditions is what I feel most passionate about.

I was both inspired and empowered to be an advocate for Indian people as a result of the formal education I received at Haskell Indian Nations University. My dedication to academic excellence resulted in being chosen as a Coca-Cola First Generation Scholar through the American Indian College Fund. Although scholarships helped us financially, it was still necessary to have an earned income. To help meet my family's financial obligations I worked as a hairstylist in a corporate salon in Lawrence throughout my undergraduate studies. In addition to working and attending college, I served as Vice President of the Little Nations Academic Center Parent Club through the Student Senate. Last spring, I received a bachelor degree in Indigenous American Indian Studies with an emphasis in Social Welfare, one week after I gave birth to my youngest daughter, Lily. In that same week, I accepted the position as a summer intern at Prairie Band Casino & Resort. At the conclusion of the intern program, I transferred to the Gift Shop as an attendant; where I worked for an additional nine months.

I'm finishing my first year of graduate school at Washburn University and am pursuing an advanced degree in clinical social work. My anticipated graduation date is spring 2017.

I strive to be an active member of the community and serve on the Bennotteh-Wigwam Policy Council, in representation of the parents in the early Head Start program. Most recently, I've accepted the summer intern position through the American Indian Health Education Research Alliance (AIHERA). The AIHERA internship will provide me with an opportunity to conduct hands on research in Indian Country. The research will eventually lead to the implementation of programs that will intervene in health disparities felt by Indian people. I believe that my formal education coupled with my passion to help create a stronger, healthier Indian Country makes me a valuable asset to our tribe. I appreciate your time and consideration when reviewing my candidacy for Secretary.

Road & Bridge comes to the rescue for the News

By Suzanne Heck

It was quite a reporting adventure for the News when editor Suzanne Heck attempted to make it to a photo shoot on May 5 with Veterans Administration officials and veteran Rey Kitchkumme out on his home site. Kitchkumme, who is building a home on the reservation through a new Native American Direct Loan (NADL) program, wanted to show the dignitaries where his home was going to be built.

L to R: Will McClammy, Tribal Outreach Coordinator-VA Eastern Health Care, Topeka, Rey Kitchkumme, PBPB Tribal Veteran, Mike Frueh, Native American Direct Loan Director, Washington, D.C. and Rudy Kopfler, Director of the VA Eastern Health Care Center, Topeka. The four men were visiting the land site where Kitchkumme is planning to build a home.

Earlier that day, the group had participated in a signing ceremony with leaders from the Prairie Band Potawatomi Nation at the Bingo Hall that is allowing Native American veterans, like Kitchkumme, to build homes on trust land. The group then headed out to where Kitchkumme is going to build his home.

Heck was late for the shoot and told the group to go back for the next event at the Bingo Hall and that she would just turn around and be right there. On her turn around, however, her car got stuck in the mud and there she sat.

Being on the rez, however, she knew exactly what to do and called Road & Bridge for help. She also called Chairperson Onnen to say she was going to be late and then just waited it out on the prairie taking in the beautiful view.

Sure enough, within minutes she saw a red Road & Bridge truck coming up the freshly graveled road that Road & Bridge crews had recently built for the future home and when it stopped, out popped

After examining the situation, the two young men got in front of the car, told Heck to get in, start the car, and to throw it in reverse. Both men, shoving with all the muscle power and grit they had, were able to physically move the car back on the gravel road to get it out of the mud.

Later on, when Heck made it back to the Bingo Hall for the Veteran’s Benefits Fair, someone asked her how she knew to call Road & Bridge. She said that in all of her thirteen years working for the PBPB that she’s always felt safe when motoring on the rez because she knows she can count on Road & Bridge. Further, she said that their dedication to helping others is outstanding as young Shobney and Evans showed.

And being the News and seeing a good story, a few photos of the adventure were taken.

Community comes out in force for EPA Clean-Up Day contest

More than 100 volunteers took part in the Community Clean-Up Day on the reservation April 17 and collectively gathered 5,037 pounds of trash.

Volunteers, who had previously formed teams by departments, met at the Division of Planning and EPA office building before fanning out across the reservation to pick up trash along roadways in two-mile stretches over 30 miles. Volunteers were given t-shirts, gloves and trash bags and then drove to their assigned sites.

As an incentive, the Division of Planning and EPA made the clean up a contest between the teams. The team who picked up the most trash that was measured in pound weight was rewarded with a pizza party a week later.

The Tribal Victim Services Department was the winning team. Second place went to Road & Bridge who received a pie and coffee party.

It should also be mentioned that elders at the Elder Center also picked up around 20 pounds of trash around their center and Head Start students were also out and about on their playground near Ben-no-tteh Wigwam picking up trash that day.

The Finance Department had a team and picked up 277 pounds of trash.

Asthma screening offered for children at Boys & Girls Club

Did you know that one out of 10 children suffer from asthma and that people can be screened for the disease particularly at an early age?

The PBPB Division of Planning & Environmental Protection and other health groups sponsored a free asthma screening for children at the Boys & Girls Club on June 3. The screening also included learning about asthma through fun games and prizes for participants.

The event was conducted in collaboration with Children's Mercy Hospital, Topeka Allergy & Asthma Clinic, Asthma Ready Communities, the U.S. E.P.A., PBPB Health Clinic, the PBPB Boys & Girls Club, and Tribal Victim Services Department.

Employees honored for outstanding work

Don Don LeClere

Matt Simpson

Verna Potts

Three employees were recognized at the All-Employee Meeting held April 24 at the Bingo Hall.

Don Don LeClere, who has worked for the Nation for over 20 years, received Employee of the Year and Matt Simpson and Verna Potts both received Employee of the Quarter for fall and winter quarters respectively.

The employees selected received a paid day-off work and a Walmart gift certificate and trophies in honor of their work.

Don Don LeClere resides on the Prairie Band Potawatomi reservation and works in the Construction/Maintenance department's landscape program. Co-worker Ernie Coleman nominated LeClere for the award and wrote that Don Don is a great role model for others and never complains about the many tasks that are sometimes given to him at the last minute.

Matt Simpson has been with the Tribal Police Department since 2011 and graduated from the Kansas Law Enforcement Training Center. He also has a bachelor of science degree in Criminal Justice and Psychology from Washburn University.

Simpson has been active as a mentor in the youth volunteer Police Explorer program and has previous work experience as a School Resource Officer.

Verna Potts works in the Division of Planning and Environmental Protection Office and serves as a lead planner and coordinator for the division's water program. Potts was nominated by Virginia "Osh" LeClere who is the director of the EPA division. She wrote that Verna works tirelessly with state, federal and tribal agencies and is building an extensive network of resources for the Nation's water program. LeClere also wrote that Verna is a true scholar and takes extra time to research and educate herself about current environmental news events that are happening and that she was recently selected to serve on the National Tribal Toxics Council where she will represent the PBPB and Region 7 which includes several states in the Midwest.

Our Lady of the Snows celebrates 100 year anniversary

Our Lady of the Snows Parish, that is located on the Prairie Band Potawatomi reservation, celebrated its 100 year anniversary May 31.

The church was officially opened in 1915 and built on ground donated by Mitchell Battese. Work began on the church in 1912 and various Indian families and other members of the community helped construct the church that was finished in 1915.

Inside the church, there is an altar that is still in use today that was imported from Italy. In addition, there are several stained glass windows that were brought in from St. Joseph's Church in Hoyt, Kansas after that church closed in 1924. In addition, a large bell was also donated that sits outside near the front entrance of the church.

Our Lady of the Snows Church history is unique in that worship in the church includes Indian hymns and other traditionally native elements that have been added to normal Catholic services. For many years the Jesuits from St. Mary's Seminary in St. Mary's, Kansas usually conducted Mass until they left the area in 1965. Following that, Our Lady of the Snows was closed for 20 years but reopened in 1986 with the help from the Archdiocesan Ministry to Native Americans and the will of the people.

Another building near the church was built in 1952 and is named after Sister Therese Klepac who served the church for many years. The hall is used as a social gathering place for meals and other events.

Today there is a large congregation of individuals who hold Mass every Sunday and practice Catholic life. In 2012 church members held a major event that celebrated the canonization of Kateri Tekakwitha (1656-1680), a Mohawk-Algonquin sister who became the first indigenous saint to ever be recognized by the Pope.

Our Lady of the Snows Church is located at 5971 166th Road, Mayetta.

Let's go to the hop: Caregiver Support Program honors 50th anniversary of Older Americans Month

There was lots of rock and roll dancing at a sock hop sponsored by the Caregiver Support program to help celebrate the 50th anniversary of Older Americans Month on May 27 at the Firekeepers Elder Center.

Volunteers from Social Services, the Diabetes Prevention program and the Language Department also helped make the event a success.

Popcorn and cokes were served and several dancers and spectators turned out for the fun and music that was provided by Larry and Mona Cole from Texas who were back for a visit.

Myself

I have to live with myself, and so
I want to be fit for myself to know.

I want to be able as days go by.
Always to look myself straight in the eye.
I don't want to stand with the setting sun,
And hate myself for things I've done.

I don't want to keep on a closet shelf,
A lot of secrets about myself,
And fool myself, as I come and go,
Into thinking that nobody else will know
The kind of man I really am;
I don't want to dress myself in sham.

I want to go out with my head erect,
I want to deserve all men's respect.
But here in the struggle for fame and wealth,
I want to be able to like myself.
I don't want to look at myself and know
That I'm bluster and bluff and empty show.

I can never hide myself from me,
I know what others may never see;
I know what others may never know;
I can never fool myself, and so.
Whatever happens I want to be,
Self-respecting and conscience free.

Wis-Ki-Ge-Amatyuk-Kansas Memory

Editor's Note: The two historical narratives that appear below are reprinted as is and were submitted by PBPN member Gary Wis-Ki-Ge-Amatyuk and taken from the Kansas Historical Society website webpage (www.kansasmemory.org).

The letter on the left is from L.F. Pearson, a U.S. Indian Agent, who wrote a letter to Col. Henry J. Aten, allotting agent in 1896. The letter discusses the activities of Prairie Band Potawatomi Chief Wish kee gee amtyk and also includes several other Prairie Band Potawatomi people that have been bolded for reader convenience. The narrative on the right was written by Jesse Nusbaum to an unidentified source and also contains information about Potawatomi history.

Col. Henry J. Aten

January 19, 1896

Dear Sir,

I have received your concern and also wish to subdue the influence of the indians of the Prairie band who has antagonized our determination of bringing tranquility to the frontier of the Kansas plains.

In doing so I believe that it is imperative to bring attention on the leading insurgent of the indians who exerts such a strong unfavorable influence upon many members of the tribe from which he belongs and continues his inherent barbarism that is injurious to our government and the prosperity of these people. I have been informed by the indians the identity of the culprit as being a one Wish kee gee amtyk the leading medicine man among the Pottawatomies.

It was determined by J.A. Scott that the indian above mentioned is called by whites, Captain John Buckshot or simply Captain John. It is also said he is a chief of the Pottawatomies of the Prairie band, but is rumored by those within the tribe with no logic that he is pronounced more a unique holyman of unbelievable capabilities. He is praised like no other indian I have ever witnessed. All Pottawatomies trust and reverence for him is so profound that the uncivilized portion of a considerable number of the tribe continue to believe and follow his ignorant superstitions. This making him a threat to our cause.

To my knowledge he is the brother of a one Wak waboshkok and they together are the sons of a one Chief Shaumquesteh, an influential chief of the tribe who is said to have been a son of Sen noge wone. It is known Shaumquesteh had grown angry in years past in disputes over land granted. This anger appears to have been inherited by his sons who now cause trouble.

I was informed Wish kee gee amtyk was entitled land on Mill Creek were he was known to have lived and led one hundred and fifty men women and children of the Prairie band.

It is of the utmost importance that a one Wish kee gee amtyk who continues his teachings and influence of encouraging the faith and ways of ancient days be paralyzed. As the Prairie band our the heart and spirited of the Pottawatomies, it is he who influences even that of the most influential chiefs and headmen of the indians who respect him to a great extent and there fore question their own decisions. He has been the inception of disobedience towards government, the agency, boarding schools, and has condemned the missionaries for a great many years past preaching his heathen ways.

His element of traditionals still clings to preserving to ancient barbarism and will not cultivate the soil or place their children in school, despising the principles of civilization.

We must bring the indians of the Prairie band to the realization of the errors of his ways so that he may not infect the more industrious and intelligent portion of the tribe. He is a obstinate spirit that is determined to continue with resistance and hostility and must be removed or punished.

I respectfully request to withholding or relinquishing any or all allotments and annuities to the indian above mentioned to produce an effect making he and family the power of example.

It is said by those that will speak that he maybe camped on Cross Creek but is known to make retreat to his northern brethren for heathen practices of superstition, of rising dead ancestors to help bring power back to their people. These rubish acts create more infection towards our cause of bringing prosperity and civilization for their advancement.

In seeking his whereabouts I have been informed he carries a high status from years past also as a decorated brave who is possibly marauding with a comparative few that maybe hostile if confronted. He is a wanderer who seeks solitude in the wild conjuring spirits.

The unintelligent among them continue to speak of him with foolishness as if he was a ghost with the capability of disappearing implying that there maybe difficulties in locating his whereabouts. His conduct for disobedience and malice towards government is tangible and must be ceased.

Very Respectfully -

L.F. Pearson
United States Indian agent.

"Back to New Mexico I quickly stoped in Mayetta Kansas to take chance at obtaining a photograph of an unusual Indian man believed by some to possess psychic supernatural powers, as told to me by Mr. Frank Rinehart who had wished to photograph the subject himself, but could not, due to the subject Wis Ki ge amatyuk being imprisoned in Fort Riley at the time of the delegation in Omaha when he first had heard of this individual 1898. Rumors of his unusual, and unexplainable gifts have traveled among many indians. Mr. Rinehart tells me his interest and inspiration of photographing this individual only came to him after meeting the infamous Apache Geronimo in Omaha, who had openly expressed feelings of meeting this psychic man from which at the time Mr. Rinehart knew nothing about. Mr. Rinehart states from what he could remember, although Geronimo was surrounded by so many indians, and peoples, it was odd that this indian psychic created such intrigue, and curiosity to the old warrior of the Apaches who had seemed to have heard rumors of his magic. To Mr. Rineharts understanding no introduction ever took place. Wis-Ki ge amatyuk himself was also a prisoner of war for disruption towards the government. My subject is known to not be a willing informant. In this year 1921 Allanson Skinner has helped me locate him, as he has successfully obtained information from him for his research on the Greatlakes and Prairie indian ceremonies, and ritualistic objects, and views of these people known as the Pottawatomie of which Wis Ki ge amatyuk was a full blooded member. He has received much of his knowledge of the underwater panther and the horned serpent from the old Holyman. Through my interpreter Mr. William Hale I was able to receive introduction. He was a mysterious individual. Even in his old condition, I took caution. I felt him to be very unpredictable. He said nothing to me directly, and made no eye contact, only to my interpreter, who tells me the old Holyman wants one silver doller for his photograph to be taken, which I gladly rewarded for his time and information. Mr. Hale, a member of the Pottawatomie people tells me that my subject was inprisoned for many years, and then states to me: "Everybody knows him, he is the Balance man, can bring good and bad medicine, everyone goes to him, he is something big in tribe, he do not like the whites to much, they take his family." Mr William Hale continues on that the last time he had seen him perform a large ceremony for the tribe as a whole, was many years ago at the funeral of his best friend Chief Kack Kack, who together had taken many scalps fighting side by side in several battles. He was chief of ceremonies conducting the old rituals of burial for his long time tribesman. Mr Hale says he has two sons, and a wife who had married another during his imprisonment, all of which still live upon the reserve Before my departure from the old Holyman I gave him three more silver dollers. This would be the only time during my visit he would ever make full eye contact with me.

Josette Wahwasuck completes Native American leadership training

Josette Wahwasuck recently completed a four-month Leadership Training for Entrepreneurial/Small Business/Economic Development training course with the California Indian Manpower Consortium, Inc. (CIMC) in Sacramento.

During her training, Wahwasuck developed a business plan called Thundering Moccasin Native American Arts & Crafts.

Wahwasuck was selected through a competitive application process and was mentored by individuals who are experts in their respective fields and contributions to Native entrepreneurship.

The training program was made possible with funding by the U.S. Department of Labor as part of the CIMC Workforce Development Program.

More than 350 Native Americans have completed the training program in the past fifteen years.

Wahwasuck lives in Redding, California and is a PBPN member.

Prairie Band Potawatomi 2015 pow wow snaps

Despite heavy rainfall the pow wow was held June 5-7 in Prairie Peoples Park. Friday night's Grand Entry was limited to the paved outskirts of the arena to allow the dance ground to dry and special equipment was also used to help dry it out. On Saturday Grand Entry was delayed until 3 p.m. and the competitions went straight through to catch up for the lost time. Judging was completed late in the day on Sunday which turned out to be a warm but beautiful day. Overall there were 11 drum groups that performed and approximately 400 dancers that registered. Below are some photos that were taken by the News.
